Egypt, Italy, Belgium, France, the Netherlands, and England Included in Tour-Meet Peace Delegates at The Hague and Discuss International Questions Debated.

John Joy Edson, accompanied by Mrs. Edson, arrived in the city yesterday, after a five-months trip abroad, and went to their country home in Kensington, Md., where they were resting comfortably last the challenge cup and the championship night, glad, as they said, to be home of Western Maryland. Mr. Powell has Mr. and Mrs. Norman Galt leave for night, glad, as they said, to be home

Mr. Edson said that the trip had been again this year it will be his personal one of constant pleasure both to him and Mrs. Edson, and that the health of both had been greatly benefited by change of scene and sojourning in many lands.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson sailed from Boston five months ago, going directly to the Root, brother of Secretary Root, and Mediterranean and landing in Egypt. head of the department of mathematics They remained in Egypt about six weeks at Hamilton College, who has been ill visiting various points, and taking a for some time, has had a turn for the long trip up the Nile Valley. They found worse, and is not expected to survive the Land of the Pharaohs full of interest, and Mr. Edson declared it would take him some time to tell of all the strange and PLAYGROUNDS IN CONTESTS beautiful and odd things he saw there. Modes of travel, dress, living, everything was different, not only from what they were used to at home, but showed many points of divergence from the notion formed by such reading about Egypt as they had been able to do.

From Egypt, their travels took them to Southern Italy, where they visited Naples and several more of the noted Italian cities. They spent several weeks very delightfully going from place to place and viewing the sights that only Italy has to show.

Go from Italy to France.

From Italy the journey continued to playgrounds in the city, the races and France, through which country they travother events were well contested, several eled by easy stages, ending, as all journeys to the republic do, in Paris, which In the contest between the Delaware they found one of the most delightful Avenue and Northwest playgrounds, the places in the world. Mr. Edson thought tried and seasoned soldiers. The march Delaware Avenue won out after a close he would want more space than a column contest, by sixty-eight to fifty-four in the newspaper to tell of all the sights The contest between the Lud- he saw and the experiences he had in

Mr. and Mrs. Edson went on to The Hague, one of the objective points, Mr. sonally in the furthering of the world's second Lieut, ROBERT B. HEWITT, Fourth In-peace. At The Hague Mr. Edson met all the American delegates and talked with outcome of the conference. The impression left on his mind was that something definite for the world's peace would be accomplished before the close of the congress. At the time he was at The Hague the American delegates were much interested in the discussion of several important questions which they thought would have a far-reaching result when formed into concrete statement and set forth as the voice of the peace delegates.

Leave Belgium Regretfully, Mr. and Mrs. Edson spent some time going about Belgium and the Netherlands, leaving that part of Europe rather regretand. A short time was spent in Great Britain, and while there was much to see Relay; girls under thirteen-Won by North Cap that was interesting, Mr. Edson said the Relay, girls under thirden won to Salta stoll, second, Juvenile Court; seven girls. Mr. Edson summed up his general impression of the trip by saying that it had been vastly educational to him, enlarging his comprehension of the world, showing how the people in the different ountries meet the struggle for existence to them. Mr. Edson declared that it was not only satisfying to the mind, but uplifting and suggestive as well to observe low other people live than those who
